1. According to Rule 126, claims 1-10 presented in the preliminary amendment of July 1, 2001 have been renumbered as 27-36.

2. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 27-32, drawn to a mold, classified in class 425, subclass 143.
- II. Claim 33, drawn to a mold for an optical disk, classified in class 425, subclass 810.
- III. Claims 34-36, drawn to a method for optimizing molding time, classified in class 264, subclass 1.33

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because:

Inventions II and I are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the apparatus can be used to practice other methods, such as one in which the thermal control means does not initially bring the temperature of the mold cavity to below a mold filling temperature as recited in step b of claim 8. Also, the method employs a primary booster as recited in step c of claim 8 which has no corresponding structure in the apparatus claims.

Inventions I/II and II/III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions constitute the mold of Group II and the method and apparatus for optimizing cooling time in molding—Groups III and I, respectively.

Clearly, the optical disk mold of Group II is unrelated to the structure set forth in Group I claims and the method recited in Group III claims, the latter inventions requiring a thermal control (for optimization of cooling time) not specified for the former.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

A telephone call was made to Mr. Gould on February 20, 2004 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

3. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Mathieu D. Vargot whose telephone number is 571 272-1211. The examiner can normally be reached on Mon-Fri from 9 to 6.
